AMUSEMENTS.

Oscar Wilde.

The indications point to a full house at the Theater next Monday night, over three rows of dress circle seats having already been disposed. The address which the poet will deliver on Decorative Art, will be, to a great extent, devoted to an exposition of the origin and progress of the new movement for the cultivation of the "Beautiful," as it has manifested itself in the best circles of English society, and as it has also manifested itself, and will continue further to manifest itself, among the cultivated classes everywhere. "Whatever Mr. Wilde has to say on this topic may be taken as an accurate history of what has been already accomplished in England, and will be peculiarly valuable as indicating what is certain to be, sooner or later, repeated everywhere," says one of his critics.

Amateur Opera.

This week's issue of the Memphis Free Trader has the following in relation to the proposed performance of "Patience" by a very little folk: "On the 13th of July, the people of Memphis will witness at Estival Park the opera of 'Patience,' performed by over fifty little boys and girls, under the direction of Professor Levy. The following is the cast and list of singers: Patience, Carrie Smith; Lady Jane, Bertha Fuld; Lady Ella, Mattie Hawkins; Lady Saphira, Blanche Miles; Lady Angelia, Hattie Nowland; Bunthorne, Willie Nowland; Grosvenor, Lawson Treadwell; The Colonel, Sam Hallie; The Major, Jim Thompson; The Duke, Walter Portlock. Chorus—Girls: Florence Fuld, Rosa Fuld, Agnes Miles, Minnie Nowland, Bertha Willett, Annie Jones, Stella Levy, Helen Vendig, Ora Kinney, Carrie Spotswood, Eileen Thompson, Hallie Faires, Emery Ebsle, Lucile Mansford, Annie Fuchs, Emma Galloway, Bessie Shanks, Mable Tagg, Norma Goodman, Louise Day, Maude Harsh, Bertha Dreescher, Pauline Dreescher, Ruth Martin, Beatrice Steinkuhl, Anna Bruce. Boys—Ed Nowland, Charles Johnson, Willie Miles, Willie Stewart, Henry Wade, Willie Estes, Abe Frank, Claud Anderson, Herbert Vendig, Oliver Kyles, Dudley Mitchell, Johnny Byan, L. Coover, Walter Miller, Charles Bernard, Oney Jones, Talbot Martin, Walter Gay."

Estival Park.

Some 200 spectators attended Estival Park, yesterday afternoon, to hear the Lizard Millard Club in their vocal exercises. The club includes the following artists: Annie S. Wright, Accompanist; J. A. Hooks, Instructor; Fannie Daniel, Mary Felton, Cora Washington, I. O. Lewis, Jennie Dixon, Mr. O. F. Hooks, J. T. Turner, Charles Williamson, G. W. Daniel, A. Thomas, D. W. Washington. Professor J. Lott, Musical Director. The following was the programme as rendered, and the 10th number, sung by Miss Fannie Daniel, was accorded: Piano Solo, "The Morning Sun," Mrs. Hooks and Miss Felton. Chorus, "Not a Tear," Club. Sing, Sweet Bird, Solo, Miss Felton. "I'll Follow Thee," Solo, Mrs. Hooks. "La Sonnambula," Mrs. Wright. "Little Sunshine," Solo, Mr. Williamson. Quartet, "The Morning Sun," Miss Daniel, Mrs. Hooks and Miss Felton. Piano Solo, "Daisies on the Meadow," Mrs. Hooks and Miss Wright. Duet, "When I Know that Thou art Near," Mrs. Hooks and Professor Lott. Solo, "Was it True," Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Hooks. Chorus, "Merry Mountain Miners," Club.

Immigrant Versus Night Watchman.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA, June 10.—A singular shooting scrape occurred at the Union Pacific depot last evening, in which an immigrant named Van Mason shot S. Stiles, a night watchman, the ball passing through his body and inflicting a fatal wound. Stiles first struck Van Mason over the head with an iron rod, inflicting a frightful wound, and the shooting is supposed to have been done in self-defense.

Heavy Loss by Fire and Water.

ROCKVILLE, CONN., June 10.—White, Corbin & Co.'s envelope works were damaged by fire and water, to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, to day. Insured for about one-half.

Envelopes, XX, high cut, cheapest in the city, at LEDGER job printing office.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, June 10.—Three hundred soldiers and police have been drafted in the district where Burke was shot. Three persons, arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder, have been released.

St. PETERSBURG, June 10.—The fire at Baker has extended to Naphtha Wells, and only likely to cease when material is exhausted.

The peasants again attacked the house of Count Babrinski. A sanguinary encounter ensued and several persons were killed.

FOUNDERED AT SEA.

A British Steamer Goes Down—All Saved but Four Seamen.

NEW YORK, June 10.—News has reached this city of the mysterious foundering at sea of the British steamer Leredo, May 8, about twenty miles northeast of Herts Sante, one of the Madeira Islands. The vessel was from Rio Janeiro, and bound for Glasgow. The circumstances attending the loss show how weak may be a British-built steamer. The Leredo was a vessel of 10,300 tons, gross register, and built at West Hartpool, England, in 1872, hence she could not be termed an old vessel. From the statements of 23 of the crew, who were saved out of a total of 26, it appears that in a moderate head of sea she cracked amidships and her decks started up, and she foundered in two minutes afterwards. Fifteen of the crew managed to save themselves in one of the boats; seven others were saved by clinging to some of the wreckage, and four were drowned.

The Outflow of Specie.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The specie exports to-day amounted to $150,000 in silver bars.

Oregon Republican.

PORTLAND, OREGON, June 10.—The average Republican majority on the State ticket is 1800. George will have no less than 3600 in the State, the largest majority ever given any candidate. Mood, for Governor, will have about 100 less. The Republicans will have the Legislature by a certain majority of ten, which may be increased to thirteen.

The Prospects of Harmony.

Jackson Tribune and Sun.

The Democratic State Convention meets on the 20th inst. The counties have very generally appointed delegates. The complexion of the convention may now be pretty accurately determined, and the prospects of harmony fairly estimated. There will be three clearly defined factions in the convention. On one hand will be the friends of the present settlement, embracing some of the ablest and purest men in the State. On the other hand will be the followers of Savage & Co., demanding the repeal of the present settlement alone, or the submission platform of '73, which is practically nothing more than repudiation. Between these two factions will stand the harmony men who will urge a policy between the extremes, and the coming down of one and the moving up of the other. There will also be a few State credit free lances who will readily agree to 60-60 or 60-4, as may best promise a united Democracy and a permanent settlement of the State debt.

The 60-60 men will be the weakest numerically, and the Savage crowd next weakest of the factions in the convention. The harmony men will be very strong, but whether strong enough to control the independent of both factions is not certain. It looks now as if the majority of the 60-60 men will be unyielding. There are also grounds for the opinion that a portion, if not a majority of the Savage faction will be equally as stubborn. Two dangers present themselves; first, the bolting of both extreme factions thereby splitting the party into three parts, each with a candidate for Governor; and second, a combination of the extremes against any action whatever on the State debt except demanding the repeal of the 60-60, which would result in practically the same kind of a split and fight as there was in 1880. But there are good grounds for the hope that the strength of the harmony men will be so marked that recruits will come from both factions in sufficient numbers to give the party a reasonable hope of success. At all events there is no hope for the party except in obedience to the majority sentiment of the party, and if the effort to harmonize on this basis fails the party will be no worse off than at present, and chaos and defeat being inevitable, every Democrat can be a party unto himself and act as pleases him best.

But we hope for the best and will do our part in the work of union and victory with honor.

Naughty Johnnie Curtis Comes Home to Papa.

What the Old Gentleman Has to Say about His Son's Escape.

St. Louis Evening Chronicle.

Since he came home night before last, leaving Mrs. Jennie Dixon, who carried him away from his anxious parents in St. Louis, at a farm house in San Antonio, "little" Johnnie Curtis, whose escape has given him almost a national reputation, has been quiet as a lion among his former associates, who have been very desirous of seeing how a young man looks after being run away with. Curtis has been modest, however, and only a favored few have been accorded the privilege of seeing him, reporters not being admitted at any price. The latest news received of him before his arrival was when he was seen by members of the Missouri Press Association in Galveston, several weeks since. A former friend, who found that he was still living with Mrs. Dixon and that both were out of money, tried to persuade him to return; but Johnnie wouldn't hear of it, as there was probably a doubt in his mind as to whether it would be safe for him to come in reach of his father.

WHAT MR. CURTIS SAYS.

Mr. F. B. Curtis, the father of the precocious Johnnie, was this morning at his desk in the Produce Exchange (vulgarily called "bucket shop"), in the Merchants' Exchange, and the query propounded:

"Has Johnnie arrived home?"

"I believe he has."

"Don't you know for certain?"

"Well, yes; he's at home."

"Where can he be seen?"

"Who are you, sir?" demanded Johnnie's venerable sire, in turn becoming the interviewer.

"An old acquaintance, merely who feels an interest in your son."

"He is out at the house. I suppose so, at least. I did not know until arriving at home last night that he had returned to the city, and was then told that he was in his room."

"Did Mrs. Dixon return with him?"

"I believe not."

"What does Johnnie say about his noted affair?"

"I have not seen him nor spoken to him. In fact, I don't think it would do any good to talk to him about it, now, at any rate."

"Do you think I could see him at the house?"

"No; he will not see any one, and it is useless to attempt it. Good day, sir, I have nothing more to impart."

When the reporter called at the residence to inquire after Johnnie's health, he was informed by the servant girl that he was not at home, and a matronly lady who might have been Johnnie's ma, confirmed the statement and supplemented it with the information that he wasn't to see newspaper men.

The PUBLIC LEDGER book bindery 13 Madison street, is in the same building as the newspaper and job printing establishment, is owned by the same proprietor; embraces all machines and material used in a first-class book bindery, and is conducted by competent workmen, capable of executing work in as good and substantial a style as can be done anywhere. 1
